Law Against Hate Peddlers Coming

ERHARD PLEDGES TO DEAL WITH NAZIS

BERLIN, (CJN). — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard pledged here last Thursday that he would never "cover up for a Nazi in a high position" in his Government.

Dr. Erhard, who met for a question-and-answer session with an organization known as the Berlin Parliament of High School Students, also said that the war-crimes trials in West Germany should and would continue "because there must be an atonement for murder and atrocities."

PRAISES HIS JEWISH TEACHER

Earlier in the day the Chancellor paid tribute to his Jewish professor, the late Dr. Franz Oppenheimer, to whose liberal philosophy he attributed "my own concept of a free economy that helped Germany recover from the war."

Dr. Oppenheimer, a distinguished Jewish economist, was obliged to give up his university career and flee from Germany when the Nazis came to power. A ceremony at Berlin's Free University marked the anniversary of his birth in Berlin 100 years ago.

Dr. Erhard, visibly moved, recounted how he accompanied the aged scientist to Amsterdam, in 1933, when Dr. Oppenheimer "was forced to leave his fatherland." Dr. Oppenheimer died in Los Angeles in 1943.

ASSURES STUDENTS

Members of the Students' Parliament, a type of political debating club, asked Dr. Erhard why former Nazi officials should hold high offices in his administration.

The Chancellor replied that there had been only one such case, that of Refugee Minister Hans Kreuger, who was promptly dismissed.

"You can be sure," he added, "that in the future if there is almost certain suspicion of someone being guilty of a Nazi offense I shall not cover up for him."

Eichman Aides Tried

FRANKFURT, Germany, (CJN) — Two former aides of Adolf Eichmann went on trial here on charges of complicity in the murder of more than 400,000 Hungarian Jews and the extortion of millions of marks from Jewish Families.

While the trial of 21 former personnel of Auschwitz is unfolding the horrors that led to the extermination of several million people, the new proceedings are expected to illustrate how the Nazis rounded them up and took them to the murder camps.

The new trial deals solely with the assembling, in the summer of 1944, of 437,402 Hungarian Jews, of whom more than 300,000 were killed at Auschwitz.

Eichmann, who planned the SS action in Hungary, was tried and hanged in Israel in 1962.

Today his former deputy in Hungary, Lieut. Col. Herman Krumey, a 59-year-old Gestapo agent turned druggist, faced the charges in what Germans have called their Eichmann trial.

Sharing the dock with him is Otto Heinrich Hunsche, 52, a former attorney, who acted as liaison officer for Eichmann at the Berlin headquarters of the Reich security main office.

GETS LIFE TERM

BONN, W. Germany, (CJN) — An assize court in Bochum last weekend sentenced the former SS (Elite Guard) administrator of the ghetto in Tarnow, near Cracow, to hard labor for life after having convicted him on 22 counts of murder and complicity in the murder of at least 4,000 Jews.

The Nazi, 63-year-old Hermann Blache, had been indicted for the murder of more than 100 of the ghetto's inhabitants, including the trampling of several children to death. He was also accused of having ordered his 16-year-old son to shoot Jews for "exercise".

Blache denied the charges, contending that he had shot "only one Jew" while all other executions were carried out by Gestapo officials.

ISRAEL PROTEST TO BONN

Bonn, (JCNS) — The Israeli Cabinet has unanimously voiced its dismay at the Bonn decision to postpone dealing with a draft amendment to Passport Law which would authorise the West German Government to recall German scientists working on the production of arms abroad. The Cabinet has referred the matter to the Ministerial Security Committee. — The German Socialist opposition supports the government on this issue.

West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard: Hitlerites must pay for crimes.

FAVREAU ASSURES WALKER: WE'RE READY FOR ACTION

OTTAWA (CJN). — The Hon. Guy Favreau, Canada's Minister of Justice, this week told Liberal Whip James Walker, Toronto (York Center) M.P., that, all rumors notwithstanding, the Justice Department is preparing effective legal measures to stop the dissemination of bigotry and racial hatred through Her Majesty's Mail and other media of communication.

Mr. Walker is co-sponsor with Mr. Milton Klein, Q.C., M.P. for Montreal (Cartier), of a bill now before Parliament, aimed at the disseminators of hate literature and other political obscenities.

SHOCKED BY OBSCENITIES IN MAIL

Mr. Walker revealed this conversation with the Minister of Justice in an exclusive interview with The Canadian Jewish News. Mr. Walker expressed his shock at the revelations by this newspaper that the antisemitic campaign through the mail is continuing.

"You may rest assured," he told us, "that, despite all appearances, the wheels of justice are moving against these maniacs. Our bill will be presented to Parliament after consultation with the proper authorities."

EXPLORING ALL POSSIBILITIES

"The Department of Justice, the Honorable Minister went on, is acting with the utmost speed possible under the circumstances to see to it that legal measures, effective measures, are taken.

"When I visited Mr. Favreau, he introduced me to the deputy minister in charge of this particular problem who is exploring all possibilities in order that Canadians are protected from the would-be Nazis and other political lunatics."

Mr. Walker also told The Canadian Jewish News that Mr. Klein and he are continuously meeting and discussing changes which may be necessary for such law to be promulgated and applied with vigor.

SOME "DOUBTERS" CHANGING OPINION

The recent revelations by The Canadian Jewish News — that the Nazi underground, through its connections with Hitlerites south of the border, is continuously importing obscene literature — has surprised many parliamentarians here. It also has prompted some to review their previous doubts about the necessity of legal measures against the dissemination of hate literature in Canada.

The feeling on Parliament Hill is that — if and when such law is passed — Canada, which is leading the free world in many areas of international responsibility and human solidarity, also will point the way in helping to cure the world from antisemitism, cancer of western society.

By M. J. Nurenberger

A THREAT TO SOCIETY

Whenever I read the reports of the Auschwitz trial, related to the horrors perpetrated in that hell on earth, I can't help but resent the reference to "Jewish" children, "Jewish" men, "Jewish" women.

In general most stories relevant to the darkest period in human history are presented as though they were a problem only between Jews and antisemites (and this too is a legacy of Hitlerism which should be destroyed). Of course, some of us may feel flattered by the fact that the archenemy of human progress Adolf Hitler, had selected THE JEW — the mythical, biblical and historical Jew — for his opponent in the world arena; and he was always conscious of the fact that, unless he disposed of this people of prophets and priests, he would sink. But the fact that Mephisto, in flesh and blood, had considered the Jew the sole obstacle in his path towards the realization of the One-Thousand-Year-Third Reich should not affect the non-Jews nor obstruct our vision of the wider perspective of the odds involved.

In Auschwitz, the German war machine waged a battle against men, women and children, tout court. That these men, women and children were in majority Jews or non-Jews, according to the race theory — or Poles or Russians — they lost their lives in the same cause for which Canadian soldiers perished in Dieppe.

I never believed (nor will I ever accept) this chauvinism which, during World War II, maimed all efforts in defining the status of Hitler's potential victims by the Red Cross; and I cannot accept today the overemphasis of the Jewishness of some victims. For, in Auschwitz (and Auschwitz was but one of the camps of extermination) Hitler fought against God and His noblest creation, man.

The Nazis had wanted to prove that man was not created in the image of God, and that a master race, not the Lord in Heaven, would determine the future of mankind.

Individually, the six-million Jews are very real. Collectively, however, they also are a symbol of this war against God's image: man. That's why the Germans had to lose.

But the other millions, non-Jews who perished at the hands of the Nazis, were not less witness to this wrestling between the diabolic and the Divine, which the last war represented.

Thus the continuity of this struggle today — the battle against the last vestiges of Hitlerism, the dissemination of hate literature, the misleading of people as to the real issues confronting humanity, the selection of the Jew as a scapegoat — has only one purpose: to blind man, to remove from his vision the sense of perceiving the actual issues involved.

One of Hitler's moral victories prior to World War II was that, by reawakening latent prejudice, he actually convinced some that his was a conflict only between the mythical Aryan and the mythical Jew.

In this retrospect, we ought to evaluate both the present trials in West Germany and the wave of hatred on this continent.

I resent very strongly the reference made several weeks ago in Toronto's morning newspaper to "a Jewish lawyer" (when some action was proposed to put the brakes on this outburst of insanity).

Perhaps it is our own fault. Maybe the Jewish element in this hate campaign has been overemphasized while the threat to society in general has been minimized. When discussing a law against antisemitism or any epidemic of hatred, the question before Canada, the United States or any free country is not whether the Jews will accept it, but whether society needs it to prevent its destruction.

FOR THE FIRST TIME IN 300 YEARS

Split In British Jewry

London, (CJN). — Chief rabbi of the Commonwealth, Dr. Israel Brodie, told a rabbinical assembly on Tuesday that an orthodox rabbi cannot apply his own interpretation of the Halakha (the religious law) against the opinion of the rabbinical court and be accepted as such.

This statement at an emergency committee of orthodox rabbis, is the newest development in the religious crisis which recently shook Britain's Jewish community.

A congregation that includes some of Britain's wealthiest Jews severed ties on Sunday with the country's Chief Rabbi and the United Synagogue, and established independent synagogue.

The United Synagogue and its Chief Rabbi are the unquestioned representatives of Britain's half million Jews.

The congregation rebelled against Dr. Israel Brodie, 69-year-old Chief Rabbi of Britain and the Commonwealth, in a dispute over the relevance of modern Biblical scholarship to the traditional beliefs of Orthodox Judaism. The situation is unparalleled in the 300-year history of the British Jewish community.

The dispute, which had been building up for two years, erupted last month when the New West End's board of management, in defiance of Dr. Brodie, invited Dr. Louis Jacobs, 43, to be its new rabbi

Dr. Jacobs, a rabbinical scholar, who has questioned some traditional Jewish beliefs, entered the pulpit April 18 and on April 23 the board was deposed by the council of the parent body, the United Synagogue.

This body controls 79 Orthodox synagogues in the Greater London area and is in turn under the authority of the Chief Rabbi.

A site for the next Sabbath services is still to be announced, but the congregation has already decided to call the breakaway organization the New London Synagogue.

Dr. Jacobs, who has said that the Chief Rabbi dislikes his acceptance of the findings of modern Biblical scholarship, attended the meeting.

MOSCOW INVITES ZIONIST WOMEN

Geneva, (JCNS) — For the first time since Israel was established in May 1948, a Zionist organisation has been officially invited to send a representative group to Russia.

Communist women's organisations in the Soviet Union have invited Wizo to send a visiting delegation, Mrs. B. Nordmann, President of Swiss Wizo (Women's Zionist Organization), announced at the European Zionist Conference in Basle.

Canada Destroyer In Haifa

HAIFA, Israel (CJN) — A Canadian destroyer escort vessel, the H.M.C.S. St. Laurent, arrived here for a five-day visit in the course of a round-the-world trip.

Commander Denis David Lee made the round of the customary courtesy visits, and was in turn host to civil, diplomatic, and naval dignitaries aboard his ship. He later left for Tel Aviv for a reception by the Canadian Charge d'Affaires.

The ship has a peacetime complement of 15 officers and 230 men. They were given shore leave for sightseeing trips and sports events.

Call Bond Leadership Conference

The Second Annual Leadership Conference sponsored by the State of Israel Bond Organization of Toronto will convene on Sunday, May 24th at the Zionist Centre, 188 Marlee, to blueprint plans for the unique 1964 Israel Bond Drive - the "Redemption Year Campaign". Patterned on the successful Leadership Conference inaugurated last year which brought together an enthusiastic gathering of more than 150 men and women Bond workers, this year's event will be highlighted by the presence of Mr. Jacques Torczyner as special guest speaker.

A brilliant orator and key figure in international activities for the State of Israel, Mr. Torczyner will deliver his address at the "Awards Luncheon" session of the all-day Conference.

"Heightened interest throughout the Jewish Community of Toronto in the fact that hundreds of families will shortly be receiving cash payment from the State of Israel for the Israel Bonds they purchased ten years ago establishes a most favourable climate for a record-breaking 1964 Campaign, "stated Bert Godfrey, General Campaign Chairman. "Our Leadership Conference on May 24th is the vehicle which will bring the plans, facts and figures before our volunteer army of workers, to enable them to reach an ever-broader segment of our community, and enroll hundreds of new families as partners in this great enterprise of building a sound, secure State of Israel."

Participants in the Leadership Conference will include, D. Lou Harris, National Chairman, State of Israel Bond Organization of Canada; Bert Godfrey, General Campaign Chairman, State of Israel Bond Organization of Toronto; Lawrence Shankman, Chairman, Board of Governors, State of Israel Bond Organization of Toronto; Meyer Gasner, Chairman, National Synagogue Council, State of Israel Bond Organization of Canada; Mrs. Mandel Israelson, Associate Chairman, Women's Division, State of Israel Bond Organization of Toronto; and Harry J. Halperin, Executive Director, State of Israel Bond Organization of Toronto.

TORONTO UJA CLOSING CELEBRATION ON MAY 21

"That Was The Year That Was," a witty and satirical sketch of Toronto's 1964 United Jewish Appeal campaign, will be the highlight of the UJA's Closing Celebration on Thursday, May 21, 8:30 p.m. at Holy Blossom Temple.

Theodore D. Richmond, campaign chairman, also announced that outstanding campaigners would be honoured by being presented with the Chairman's Award.

"This award, he said, instituted for the first time last year, is to be presented to those who made an exceptional contribution of time and energy to the campaign. Only 15 of these awards were made last year, and about the same number will be given this year.

"The men and women who receive a Chairman's Award can be justifiably proud, because it reflects the gratitude of the entire Jewish community for their devotion and dedication."

"That Was The Year That Was" is being produced by Morley Pape, who had an important role in previous campaign-ending shows in 1961 and 1962. This year's show was written by Fred Bookman, Mrs. Louis Libman, Mrs. Nathan Perlmutter, Isadore B. Weinstein and Mr. Pape.

Mr. Richmond reported that with two weeks remaining, a total of $2,242,804 has been pledged, representing an increase of $172,179 over the same cards last year. "I believe the campaign has been going quite well so far," he stated, "and all we need is that 'extra push' to make it a real success. Now is the time for everyone who still holds cards to canvass their prospects. I urge those who have not yet made pledges to be generous when they are called upon to do so."

A telephone blitz is scheduled for this Sunday morning at 10 a.m. at UJA headquarters, 150 Beverley St., Mr. Richmond said. A similar blitz was held last Sunday to give workers an opportunity to cover cards by telephone from a central location.

KINDLING THE SABBATH LIGHT

By PHILIP M. RASKIN

From memory's spring flows a vision tonight,
My mother is kindling and blessing the light.
The light of Queen Sabbath, the heavenly flame,
That one day in seven quells hunger and shame.
My mother is praying and screening her face,
Too bashful to gaze at the Sabbath light's grace.
She murmurs devoutly, "Almighty, be blessed,
For sending Thy angel of joy and of rest.
"And may as the candles of Sabbath divine
The eyes of my son in Thy Law ever shine."
Of childhood, fair childhood, the years are long fled;
Youth's candles are quenched, and my mother is dead.
And yet ev'ry Friday, when twilight arrives,
The face of my mother within me revives;
A prayer on her lips, "O Almighty, be blessed
For sending us Sabbath, the angel of rest."
And some hidden feeling I cannot control
A Sabbath light kindles deep, deep in my soul.

WJC Leaders at Treblinka Shrine

A delegation of World Jewish Congress leaders, headed by Dr. Nahum Goldmann, WJC President (right), and Mr. Samuel Bronfman, WJC Vice-President (left), will attend the unveiling of a memorial at Treblinka on May 10, 1964. The memorial will honor 700,000 Jews who perished in Treblinka gas chambers from spring 1942 to the fall of 1943. With Dr. Goldmann and Mr. Bronfman will be WJC leaders from Europe, Israel, and South America.

FOR THE FIRST TIME

ARGENTINE BISHOP BLASTS ANTISEMITISM

Buenos Aires, (JCNS) — For the first time, an Argentine bishop has made a public statement strongly condemning antisemitism and praising Israel.

Monsignor Enrique Principe, the Bishop of Santa Fe, 300 miles from Buenos Aires, was speaking at a meeting there commemorating the 21st anniversary of the Warsaw Ghetto Uprising. Members of the provincial executive, legislature and judiciary heard him say:

"My presence on this platform, unimaginable a generation ago, is due to the fact that many prejudices have disappeared lately. My presence here must be interpreted as symbolising my personal support and sympathy, as well as that of the Church, for those who suffered under the barbarism of Nazi persecution".

Bishop Principe sharply condemned the resurgence of neo-Nazi activities in Argentina and called on the Government to take immediate action to curb "provocative antisemitic activities" in the country.

The former Chief of Police of the province of Santa Fe, Colonel Kurt Brenner has denounced the Tacuara movement, the largest of the antisemitic groups in the country as "a threat to the national security of Argentina." He said this during a national television broadcast,, devoted to a discussion on Neo-Nazism in the Argentine.

LENIN PRIZES FOR JEWISH SCIENTISTS

London, (JCNS) — Among the winners of the Lenin Prize for 1964 are two Russian-Jewish scientists, Benzion Vul and Mark Aizerman. They were given the award for their contributions to Soviet science and technology.

Vul is one of his country's leading physicists. His research, which won him the prize, "resulted in the creation of transistor quantum generators."

Aizerman, one of the chief designers of a system of "elements of industrial pneumo-automation" which, according to the Soviet news agency, "Tass", has made possible "a higher technical level of automation".

The Order of the Red Banner of Labour has been conferred on Yuli Raizman, the Russian-Jewish film director, on the occasion of his 60th birthday. He already holds the highest distinction in his field, the designation of People's Artist of the U.S.S.R. for his films.

A PROGRESSIVE MUNICIPALITY

By IRV PAISLEY
Deputy Reeve

In the last decade, North York has grown by leaps and bounds. The population has increased from 97,000 in 1952 to 303,000 in 1963, making it the second largest populated area in Metro and the third largest municipality in Canada. Assessment has grown from $53 million to $714 million in 1963, and in land area it is twice the size of the city of Toronto. It is predicted that by 1970 the population will be close to 700,000.

The skyline is changing rapidly. From three-storey apartments there have risen 20 and 30-storey luxury apartments. Tremendous improvements are being made on highway 401 in order to handle the expected increase in population. Presently it is being widened through North York from a six-lane, full-access road to a 12-lane, limited-access super highway. These improvements also call for a $39,000,000 cloverleaf which will be the largest in the world. The Spadina Expressway soon will traverse the township from north to south with rapid transit lines in the center, giving residents fast transportation to and from the city.

To the west, North York inhabitants were fortunate in being able to convince the Provincial Government to utilize 400 acres of valuable land for a brand new university complex, know as York University. Future road development assures ample vehicular and commuter access to this university. York University will complete the last level of education for North York students and will be the hub of yet another cultural center.

Speaking of education, North York is fortunate in having a tri-level system of education which has proven itself without a doubt. Its technical school facilities are the best in Canada; the local schoolboard is noted for its determination in providing children not only with the most modern plant available but also with the latest in teaching aids, for slow learners and geniuses as well as for the average pupil.

The library system now consists of four existing sites; three more are planned for the near future. Traveling bookmobiles provide a temporary service to those areas yet to be supplied with libraries.

Regarding sports arenas, two now are in use; a large central arena is planned for the Bathurst-Finch area. Presently there are artificial ice rinks and change houses in every ward of the township.

In this township, expansion is going on not, only in a structural sense but also in a political vein, as there soon will be twelve wards and a board of control. This will assure the ever-expanding community of growing at a proper pace, that the best use will be made of all presently vacant lands and proper representation to all will exist. In keeping pace with the electronic age, the municipality recently has rented a computer to assist its planning staff in laying the subdivisions in a proper and scientific manner as well as save money and time in arriving at these decisions.

North York township has by plebiscite approved a one mill tax levy, the proceeds of which are used to assist in the construction of hospitals in the municipality. There is Branson Hospital, at Bathurst and Finch, which never has stopped expanding since construction was started. Two hospitals are in the planning stages, with one due to start construction this year.

Summing it up, North York is a fast and growing municipality and, with all the services being provided, the tax rate is kept down to a manageable size.

Habonim In Toronto

(By a Special Correspondent)

It is late Friday night, almost any Friday night. From somewhere in back of an almost deserted, darkened building at Viewmount and Bathurst you can hear the sound of singing and music. Follow the long corridor of 14 Viewmount to the end as the voices grow stronger and one can hear a traditional Shabbat Zmirot, or perhaps a Yiddish folk song, even a Russian ballad. In the light of a few candles one can make out forty or fifty young people sitting on chairs, on tables, on the floor.

These are the older members of Habonim, relaxing after an evening working with the younger children of the group. They have prepared an Oneg Shabbat, led discussions on Judaism, Israel, Zionism, taught dances and songs.

Habonim is a Labor Zionist Youth movement with branches all over the world. Its principles were formulated almost thirty years ago, and despite the great changes that have taken place in Jewish life they still hold true: to educate young Jews to become builders of a Jewish homeland; to educate them towards a revitalization of Jewish values; to prepare for active participation in North American Jewish community life; to fight for Jewish rights everywhere, and for human rights on the principles of equality, coorperation, democracy.

Habonim from North America have built Kibbutzim in Israel.

JACK DEMPSEY APPEALS TO YOUTH

Appealing to youth to appreciate the great values of education, prayer, and physical fitness, Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion boxer of the world, recently addressed an eager and attentive student body at North York's Yorkdale Vocational School.

The great Manassa Mauler recounted how he left school in the third grade against his father's advice. "My father was a teacher, but his pay was only twenty dollars a month. Twenty dollars a month isn't much for a family of thirteen; so I followed my brother into the fight game. I was fortunate and made some money but you can't buy education and you can't get along without it. Stay in school as long as you can. I think many teachers are still underpaid, having regard to the serious responsibility which is theirs."

Turning to spiritual matters, Jack Dempsey asked the boys and girls to always say their prayers. "You've no idea how often my prayers have been answered. It's wonderful!"

He said the human body was the foundation for life. "When you build a house, you must have a strong foundation. Similarly, you must keep your body in good condition. Walk a lot, play games, and be active. It's better for you not to smoke, not to drink."

In introducing "the champ", Walter H. Drynan of the DeVry Institute of Canada said, "Jack Dempsey likes people and is well liked. He remembers his friends and those who helped him achieve success. He likes young people particularly, and has been a great inspiration to thousands of students at DeVry Technical Institute in encouraging them to pursue their studies."

In expressing the appreciation of the students and staff members, Alex Morris, Yorkdale's Head of Guidance, said, "We shall always remember Jack Dempsey's visit, his warmth of personality, and the inspiration and sincerity of his message."

Mr. W. A. Robinson of the DeVry Institute, Chicago, accompanied Mr. Dempsey. He spoke with great praise of the educational programme at Yorkdale in its accomplishment of teaching both academic subjects and occupational skills to students who otherwise might be forced to drop out of the usual school programme. He expressed much surprise and commendation in learning that 86 per cent of all young people between the ages of thirteen and eighteen years of age in North York were in school.

ISRAEL'S NEW DEAL WITH COMMON MARKET

Jerusalem (JCNS). — Israel is far from satisfied with the agreement concluded with the European Common Market last week.

While it provides for tariff reducations of up to 20 per cent on a variety of industrial produce, there is no concession on oranges, Israel's major export item. There is only a pledge that should the Common Market reach agreement with another major exporter of oranges, then the situation of Israel will be reconsidered.

Mrs. Golda Meir, the Israeli Foreign Minister, told the Knesset Foreign Affairs and Security Committee, that the agreement was "not what we wanted nor what is due to us". But, she pointed out, it was only a first agreement "and there will certainly be more."

Becomes Liverpool Mayor

LIVERPOOL, (JCNS) Councillor Louis Caplan, a prominent Labour member of the Liverpool City Council and a noted communal worker, was nominated to be Liverpool's next Lord Mayor. He will be installed at the Council's annual meeting on May 20. Councillor Caplan, aged 52, is a bachelor, and it is not yet known whom he will invite to act as Lady Mayoress. He will be the fourth Jew to be chief citizen of Liverpool.

ANTWERP JEWS ACCEPT APOLOGY

Antwerp, (JCNS) — Representatives of 27 Jewish organisations in Antwerp decided, at a meeting convened by the Zionist Federation, to regard as closed the incident in a cafe here, when the city's Mayor, Dr. Lode Craeybecky, shouted anti-Jewish insults at four men.

M. Craeybeckx sent the organisations a letter apologizing for his behaviour, as well as writting to the "Belgish Israelitish Weekblad", which published his letter.

However, a somewhat embarrassing situation remains since Dr. Craeybeckx can hardly be expected as a guest at Jewish function as formerly.

Dr. Craeybeckx is a national leader of Belgium's Socialist Party.

El Al — Sas Agreement

JERUSALEM, (JCNS) Agreement was reached here this week for the resumption of flights to Israel by S.A.S., the Scandinavian airlines. The renewed services came into operation on April 6. El Al, the Israeli national airline, will be introducing flights to Copenhagen, Denmark, in the autumn.

S.A.S. was refused landing rights at Lydda six years ago as the result of a dispute with El Al over the right to carry passengers between Israel and Germany when the Israel airline opened up its German route.

Nazi In S. America

Geneva, (JCNS) — Hans-Walter Zech-Nenntwich, 47, the convicted Nazi war criminal who escaped to Switzerland from a German prison, is reported to have reached South America, where so many of his kind are safely living.

He escaped from a Brunswick prison last week with the assistance of one of the wardens, who has been arrested. With the help of accomplices waiting outside the prison, he was flown to Basle. He took a train for central Switzerland and disappeared.

Nenntwich's escape is thought to have been engineered by "Odessa", a clandestine organisation of former members of the S.S.

DOUBLE TALK

An official of the Jordan pavilion at New York's World's Fair is quoted as having said: "All pavilions are propaganda. We are not against the Jews, but we are against Israel and the foreigners who took our homes and property."

NIP AND KNIP

With the Fair putting so much emphasis on litelike reality, visitors are having some trouble sorting out fact from fantasy.

At one of the pavilions last week, a pretty young girl was posing with a futuristic automobile for a publicity picture. The photographer was lost in the crowd.

A dignified, middle-aged man detached himself from the throng and with no hesitation walked up and pinched the young lady — on the leg. For a single, horrified moment they both gaped at each other: speechless, and then the man, beetred, strode off, muttering to anyone who would listen: "For goodness sake, she's real!"

WAY OF ALL FLESH

Into the New York World's Fair at noon marched 200 orthodox Jewish students wearing felt hats and curled sideburns, and under instructions to avoid the pavilions of Jordan and Egypt — and also Hollywood.

Weeks ago two rabbis inspected the World's Fair and determined which spots would be sufficiently "moral" for the students to visit. They also rejected the kosher kitchen of the American-Israel Pavilion on the ground that it wasn't kosher enough. The students brought their lunches from home.

Minimum Wage Extended Throughout Ontario

Last year, Minimum Wage legislation was introduced in the Toronto-Hamilton-Oshawa industrial area. It proved highly successful, and as a result, I am pleased to announce an early extension of it throughout the entire Province beginning on June 29. I ask you now to read the following highlights carefully to establish exactly how this vital and progressive piece of legislation will benefit you.

HON. H. L. ROWNTREE, Q.C.
Minister of Labour

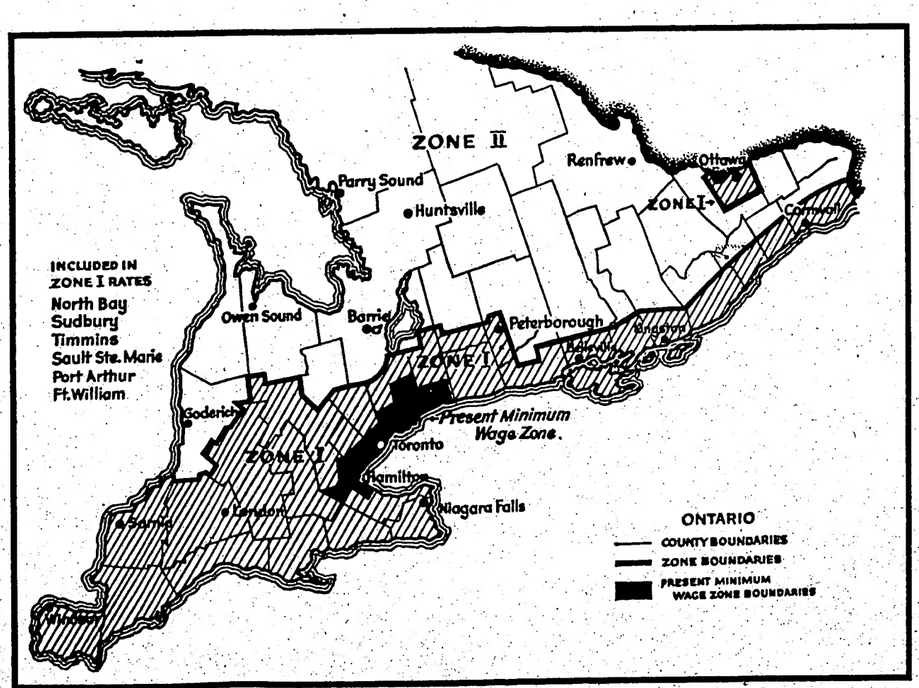
Reduced to its simplest terms, the new Minimum Wage Orders, implemented and enforced by your Ontario Department of Labour, are designed to protect every working man and woman in the Province from exploitation, and set a minimum wage of $1.00 an hour ($1.25 in the construction industry).

The Orders, now in effect in the Toronto-Hamilton-Oshawa "horseshoe", will be extended throughout the entire Province on June 29. However, so that employers will have sufficient time to adjust to and absorb the higher rates, the Orders must be carried out in stages.

Briefly, here's how your Ontario Department of Labour plans to go about it. The Province will be divided into two Zones. Zone 1 takes in the more heavily populated and industrialized areas and centres. In this Zone, the $1.00 Minimum Wage will be achieved not later than March of next year. In Zone 2, covering the remainder of the Province, the wage will be achieved by December of next year.

In the Construction Industry, the Minimum Wage of $1.25 an hour will be reached in the same manner in both Zones.

The map and salary boxes on this page show the two zones, and the salary increases scheduled in both.



ZONE 1

General and Hotel and Restaurant Order

	Men	Women
June 29, 1964	$1.00	$ .85
Sept. 28, 1964		.90
Dec. 28, 1964		.95
March 29, 1965		1.00

Construction Work Order

June 29, 1964	$1.25

ZONE 2

General and Hotel and Restaurant Order

	Men	Women
June 29, 1964	$ .85	$.80
Dec. 28, 1964	.90	.90
December 27, 1965	1.00	1.00

Construction Work Order

June 29, 1964	$1.15
December 27, 1965	1.25

SPECIAL GROUPS

The General Minimum Wage Order does not apply to: Registered apprentices; camp counsellors or students employed in certain recreational programs; apartment house janitors who live in; real estate and insurance salesmen and salesmen who determine their own hours; professional persons and teachers; domestic servants; farm labourers.

Special rates (80¢ in Zone 1 and 75¢ in Zone 2) apply in the following cases: A student who does not work more than 28 hours a week; a seasonal worker processing perishable fruits and vegetables who does not work more than 16 weeks in a year.*

Special rates (60¢ in Zone 1 and 50¢ in Zone 2) apply in the following cases: Delivery boys, messengers, newsvendors, pinsetters, caddies who are under 18 years of age.*

*In both special rates categories, the Zone 1 rates will apply in Zone 2 on December 27, 1965.

EMPLOYERS NOTE

Where employees are being paid on a piece-work basis, if at least four-fifths of them are earning at least the minimum wage, you will be considered as complying with the Orders.

Learner Rates are as follows: Where employees are on a piece-work basis, learners may be paid 20¢ less than the prescribed minimum rate for the first three months of employment, and 10¢ less for the second three months. In all other cases, learners may be paid 10¢ less than the prescribed minimum for first four months of employment. The Hotel and Restaurant Order establishes a special learner rate 10¢ lower than the prescribed minimum rate for the first month of employment.

Your Ontario Department of Labour stresses the fact that these are just the highlights of the new Minimum Wage Orders. To find out exactly what the Orders mean to you, please write: THE LABOUR STANDARDS BRANCH, THE ONTARIO DEPARTMENT OF LABOUR, 74 VICTORIA STREET, TORONTO 1, ONTARIO, or telephone 365-5251

FINALLY

AN OFFICIAL BONN STATEMENT

The statement made in Berlin last week by West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, pledging "never to cover up for a Nazi in high position," has been long overdue.

German authorities now admit that the escape of a convicted war criminal, the notorious Hans Walter Zech-Nenntwich, from a West German prison was organized by "some Nazi underground."

If this underground has been discovered by the West Germans only last week, they have been very slow indeed in determining the source of the revived international conspiracy against democracy.

Anyone conversant with the role of Nazis after their defeat, anyone who can guess the fortunes in dollars hidden by these criminals in Swiss banks and protected by the secret banquaire realizes that there are Hitlerites who feel the time has come for them to crawl out from their hiding places. They have become active in Arab lands where, unfortunately, demagogues are in dire need of hatemongers. They also have been close to some Latin American regime where graft and corruption prevail.

Thus the statement by Erhard — there must be atonement for murder and atrocities — may encourage us to believe that the German government will arrive finally at the source of this evil and its financial backers.

IMPORTANT SCHOOL

THE BETH JACOB MOVEMENT

The annual dinner of Toronto's Beth Jacob, the city's only Jewish high school for girls, scheduled for May 26th, again will draw to our attention this important, educational institution.

In the last forty years, Beth Jacob has become synonymous with a movement which contributed much to the traditional education of Jewish women the world over. Started modestly in Cracow, Poland, by an unassuming seamstress, Sarah Schenirer (whose name became a legend in pre-World War II Europe), Beth Jacob has placed upon the agenda of Jewish community endeavor the problem till then greatly neglected — that of educating the Jewish woman.

The old pattern had been one of teaching Torah to men and dismissing lightly the problem of equating the Jewish woman in the knowledge of her heritage.

Today, when women slowly but surely are rising as equals to men because of the technical progress of society, the Jewish upbringing of our women as preached by Beth Jacob is undoubtedly one of actuality, and the success of Beth Jacob schools in Israel, Europe and the United States has encouraged orthodox leaders in our community to emulate this example.

Their effort shows impressive results. However, it is only the beginning of a great task, a cause which warrants support.

MASSIVE SOCIAL SERVICE

The American-Jewish social service establishment consists of 420 institutions, according to the latest report (1962) in the just published "Yearbook of Jewish Social Service" for 1963. There are 78 hospitals and other institutions serving the sick, 55 clinics for outpatients 88 homes for the aged, 129 family service agencies, and 70 child care agencies.

None of these institutions is parochial in the sense of retricting its services to members of the Jewish community. In fact, the Jewish hospitals now serve more non-Jewish patients than Jewish patients. About two-thirds of all in-patients in 1962 were non-Jews, up from one-half in 1950 and three-fifths in 1960.

In the same year, 70 per cent of the out-patients in Jewish hospitals were non-Jews, and this trend is still upwards. The principal cause is that virtually all Jewish hospitals are located in urban sections, while the Jews have moved to the suburbs. A contributory factor is the financial prosperity of large numbers of Jewish families, which enables them to resort to private hospitals and the private wards of prestige hospitals not under Jewish auspices.

The total 1962 budget of the 316 agencies, out of a total of 420, which are covered by the 1963 Yearbook, was over $290 million (about £103½ million), of which over $238 million covered the budgets of the reporting 60 hospitals and clinics. Of the total welfare budget, 70.3 per cent was covered by payment for services rendered. In the case of the hospitals, 76.1 per cent came from this source, owing to the fact that these days most Americans are in some scheme of hospital and medical insurance.

The relative prosperity of American Jewry, numbering close to six million, is reflected in the small number of requests for financial assistance made to Jewish social service agencies. In 1962, fewer than 2,000 families received financial asistance, which amounted to about $2 million, or an average of $1,000 per case.

While American Jews now rely less on the health services of Jewish institutions, there is a sharp increase in the case loans of the agencies serving troubled families and disturbed children. Broken homes, divorce and deterioration of the Jewish code of sexual morality have created a still growing need for psychiatric and counselling services, foster homes, and for the care of seriously disturbed children and teenagers.

The 1963 Yearbook reports that "a growing number of family and children's agencies in the United States and Canada have within the past five years developed services for unmarried mothers". There are no accurate figures on the number of Jewish out-of-wedlock births, but nation wide they are on the increase and, according to rabbis and social workers, the number of Jewish unmarried mothers is rising "frightfully".

The large army of senior citizens, the preferred and accepted term for the aged, is still growing. Services to this group are likewise increasing. The new-type Home for the Aged is a far cry from the "moshav zekeinim" of yesteryear, although most of the homes are still of the regimented, institutional kind. Several homes, however, have added single occupancy rooms, more facilities for recreation, and club, hobby and activity programme.

EDUCATIONAL RAT RACE

American synagogue membership is mushrooming to such an extent that one rabbi cannot discharge his pulpit duties while simultaneously being on obligatory call for the spiritual needs of up to 1,200 families who look to him as their pastor and spiritual adviser.

Some 200 congregations now have assistant and associate rabbis and virtually all congregations of medium size (ca. 300 member families) entrust their schools to educational directors and the management of their organisational and business affairs to executive directors.

As every congregation is in fact a kehillah, and is expected to discharge all religious and community functions and services for lack of city-wide kehillot, there is much duplication, competition and, even cold warfare among synagogues, even when they are affiliated to the same "trend". It is by no means unusual for two or even three Conservative or Reform congregations to function within an area of a few city or suburban streets.

While the demand for assistant rabbis is large, many young rabbis are reluctant to accept assistantships. In a recent issue of the "Journal of the Central Conference of American Rabbis" (Reform), Rabbi Sanford Seltzer weighed the pros and cons of serving as an assistant rabbi in "a large and prestigious congregation".

The advantages, according to Rabbi Seltzer, are that what with the many unfilled assistantships, the new graduate rabbi can practically write his own ticket. "The prospects of a spacious office, secretarial and custodial help, and the latest in stenographic equipment are far more appealing than the one-man operation of the small congregation frequently is.' Other attractions are working with an experienced rabbi and the stimulus of preaching before a large congregation.

But there are drawbacks as well, chiefly the relative obscurity of the assistant rabbi, his transitory estate and his knowledge that before long he will have to leave "the plush surroundings" of the large congregation and look for the type of pulpit available to a beginner.

GEOGRAPHICAL BALANCE

This is the time of the year when college boards decide on the admissions to their freshmen classes while, in hundreds of thousands of homes, nervous parents and their examinations — weary sons and daughters await the verdict. What with the bumper crop of post-war babies who are now 19-years old and are besieging the college admission offices, competition for a place in a good college is intense.

As for the Ivy League colleges (Columbia, Cornell, Harvard, Princeton, Brown, University of Pennsylvania and Yale) and their "Seven Sisters," i.e., select women's colleges some of which are affiliated to their "brothers", they are steadily stiffening their admission requirements. Princeton expects to turn down about 4,000 highly qualified applicants this year for lack of space. Harvard and Columbia are said to reject about twice this number.

There is general agreement that the Ivy League colleges and their "sisters" do not discriminate against Jews. At the same time, however, they are committed to a policy of "geographical balance" with the view to having all the States and foreign countries as well, represented in the student body.

Since applicants from New York exceed the number of available places in the Ivy League colleges (and a disproportionately large group of the applicants are Jews), it is inevitable that many a Jewish young man and his irate parents charge that

FINDS NEWS EDITORIAL LACKING IN INTELLIGENCE

Dear Editor:

The editorial in the April 30th issue of The Canadian Jewish News, concerning Scarborough's proposal on religious education, does not show much intelligence, in my estimation.

Of course religious instruction doesn't belong in a public school. That is a point that does not need any belaboring in a Jewish weekly.

The Scarborough Board has proposed that six from the eight grades of elementary schools be free of doctrinal instruction.

Please answer one question: Is this or is it not a step in the right direction? Also, is it or isn't it an improvement over the status quo?

Downsview — Harry Gelbman

WHY POOH-POOH SCARBOROUGH?

Dear Editor:

Scarborough is the first school board in the Toronto area that presents a sensible proposal to reform the system of teaching religion, and the editorial in the April 30th issue of The Canadian Jewish News pooh-poohs it. Here is a school board seriously trying to do something to alter the system basically, without any pressure from Jewish constituents (the Jewish population in that area, as you must know, is negligible), and you greet it with disdain.

Obviously the intention was to remove all religious education, for the resolution to that effect was moved first; but it failed through a tie. Thus the motion passed eventually was a compromise. You would prefer, however, to have no bread rather than half-a-loaf.

FORMER TEXAN LIKES US

Dear Editor:

I am very much surprised that in a city such as Toronto, and with an impressive Jewish community, so many people eat trayfe (non-kosher) meats and bread. (I called up most of the bakeries here and learned that they baked their breads, buns, etc. with lard). All delicatessen stores serve frankfurters and hamburgers with non-kosher buns.

Many people are unaware that these breads are not kosher, and they should be informed of the fact. In fact, the ingredients should be written on the wrappers.

I come from Lubbock, Texas, where people are compelled to eat trayfe meats. But people here do not appreciate how wonderful it is to have everything right on hand. It is a blessing and "heaven on earth" to live among your own kind.

I took many things for granted, but, believe me, I am so thankful to be here.

There are eighty Jewish families in Lubbock, so you can imagine what chance a Jewish child has. Again I say that this is "heaven on earth" and may we always have a multitude of Jews here.

Incidentally, I enjoy The Canadian Jews so much that I share it with my friends and relatives by sending clippings, paper, etc. The articles are so very cleverly arranged.

GROSSMAN REVEALS ROBARTS' ROLE

HOW ONTARIO PM HELPED SAVE CONFEDERATION

The hon. Allan Grossman, Ontario's Minister of Reform Institutions, last week made some very interesting remarks about the role of Ontario Premier Robarts in helping resolve the Ottawa-Provinces crisis.

Speaking off the cuff at a meeting of the St. Andrew Progressive Association in Toronto, Mr Grossman for the first time revealed the story-behind-the-story of Mr. Robart's diplomacy in a crucial moment for Canada.

Said Mr. Grossman:

"John Robarts, the quiet, unassuming Premier of Ontario, is the real "hero" of the recent "cliff-hanger" series of Federal-Provincial Relations".

"Premier Robarts resisted all pressure to make him push the "Panic Button" on pensions during the Provincial election campaign, even though it appeared to be the politically smart thing to do at that time. Mr. Robarts insisted then, as he has since, that, in dealing with such a vital, important matter involving hundreds of millions of dollars of taxpayers money, and the future of millions of Canadians, we should examine every aspect of the proposed Canada Pension Plan, to assure that it would be a successful one".

AVOIDED MISTAKES

Mr. Grossman continued:

"Premier Robarts insistance on the necessity to avoid rush conclusions which would jeopardize a strong national pension plan, avoiding the mistakes of a hurried 60 days of decision approval, and the repetition of a bankrupt Unemployment Insurance Fund, was the most important factor in arriving at what finally appears to be a good national pension plan.

"A man with a lesser sense of responsibility than Premier Robarts would have succumbed to the temptation to play the demagogue in appearing to resist what he could have termed as appeasement of Quebec.

IF... THEN

Premier Robarts, according to Grossman, took the position that if Quebec went it alone, then Ontario must have the right, to go it alone. He insisted that, if there was to be a pension plan, national in scope, then the Federal Government must alter its plan to make it acceptable to all Canadians. This put Pearson in the position where he could then meet Quebec's requirements without appearing to be currying favour with that Province to the exclusion of the other nine Provinces.

JOHN P. ROBARTS
Role of Peacemaker Divulged

The popular Ontario Cabinet Minister then told our reporter:

"Prime Minister Pearson is probably happy that, at least during this very sensitive period in the history of our country, a man of Mr. Robarts' stature and approach heads the Ontario Government. A man of lesser stature than Robarts probably would have widened the cleavage developing between Pearson and Lesage — and do it for his own political gain — and the temptations and pressures were great. But Robarts and your Ontario Government, in the interests of the people of Ontario and all of Canada for national unity resisted such temptations.

"One may play the game of politics on matters of lesser importance — but we, in this Province, refuse to engage in this kind of political gymnastics on such important matters.

"Ontario — yes — Canada will know that the final draft of the Canada Pension Plan is approved by the Robarts' Government that the plan will be a reliable one — a strong one — well based — carefully thought out — thoroughly planned and organized, and not just a hastily baked pudding which will give everyone indigestion!"

ROBARTS THE SAVIOR

"I think it quite in order to say bluntly that if, in fact, Confederation was in danger, Premier Robarts, by cool, calm, appraisal of the situation, and his refusal to take advantage of a situation for personal political gain, poured oil on the troubled waters which were threatening national unity and so averted possible disaster.

"As a statesman, and for the good of all Canada, Robarts took a firm approach and the result will be nothing but good for all Canadians", Mr. Grossman concluded.

THE RABBIS AND THE SACRED COW

By LEON SILVER

Rabbi Max I. Rottenberg, the newly-elected president of the Rabbinical Assembly of America (conservative), in his maiden speech, made an appeal to the rabbis to exert their right to be informed whether institutions, such as the "Y's and community centres — if communaly supported — are fulfilling their task.

I believe it is important that Canadian rabbis read carefully the following excerpt from Dr. Rottenberg's address as reported by the National Jewish Post:

"....When a community spends millions of dollars to support an institution that brings Jews together to play in a gymnasium, swim in a pool, sweat in a steam room and for culture and education provides them with classes in social dancing, bridge and Zen Budhism; where, in many instances, it serves the social and recreational needs of a majority of non-Jews; and where the Jewish tone and atmosphere are completely lacking, then it is our responsibility to be sharply critical and to insist that the right of this institution for communal support be questioned and carefully evaluated".

"....These are legitimate questions that we have an obligation to raise and to demand an answer. If we are told to mind our business, then we are under obligation to inform the Jewish community of our doubts and disquietude concerning these agencies."

It is high time Canadian Rabbis begin to teach our laymen what Jewish community responsibility is — and not fear the "Sacred Cows", to use the expression of the leader of America's Conservative rabbinate.

I believe this reminder is kosher enough to be studied by all our spiritual leaders of all "denominations".

SERMON FOR THE WEEK

FOR THE SAKE OF THE WORLD

The Law of the Jubilee is one of the glories of the Torah. It is a jewel of socio-economic legislation that is in itself sufficient to immortalize any legal code. Reduced to fundamental terms, it represents a heroic human attempt, under Divine inspiration, to realize the ideal of righteousness in the context of human right to personal liberty and material security: When the Shofar note of liberation was sounded on the Day of Atonement in the fiftieth year, the slave was restored to freedom and the alienated land to its owner.

That the law was oft-times honoured in the breach is vehemently underscored by the impassioned denunciations of the prophets. The lapse was human and only to be expected; but the law itself radiates a Divine, unquenchable moral light that marks the nation that codified it as an "am Segulah" — one of the world's great civilizing peoples.

At the same time it would be idle to deny that practicability of the legislation is conditioned by the economic structure of society. It was suited primarily to an early, agricultural form of economy. The industrial Revolution has made the possibility of applying the healing humanity of the Jubilee ordinance extremely difficult, if not impossible. Yet the underlying principle of this beneficent statute is imperishable. Today it is needed more than ever if our technological advancement is not to produce a soulless tyranny vaster and more pitiless than the despotisms of primitive ages.

But the significance o fthe Law of the Jubilee transcends its primary social and economic purpose. It has historic overtones. It is also a fundament of Jewish life. The precept "Ye shall return every man unto his possession" is not restricted to field and vineyard. We have more important and enduring possession. We have spiritual values, religious and ethical ideals, cultural and national estates, which, in their sublime aggregate, constitute our heritage.

Sometimes we deliberately desert our inheritance; at other times we lose our way and discover, in the day of reckoning, that we have become estranged from our patrimony. But there is an inevitability of Jewish return. As a people we can wander thus far and no further from the sources of our life. Like the legendary phoenix we are seemingly consumed at times, by the fires of assimilation, to the ashes of complete destruction; and then the hand of Providence restores us — forcibly, it would appear — to life and a new cycle of achievement. Can we explain the mystique of our existence?

The irresistible answer is that Judaism, viewed in its highest spiritual perspective, is a "world necessity". If it did not exist, it would have to be invented. It is the only remedy for the chronic collapse of civilisation and human retreat into barbarism. In our own time its moral law (so nobly exemplified by the Jubilee legislation), linked to the concept of the living and loving God, is the ultimate hope of mankind in a world divided against itself by rival economic and political ideologies and threatened by nuclear doom. Once it was argued that the survival of the Jew was itself proof of God's existence. We may add a corollary: the Jew survives for the sake of Judaism and Judaism lives for the sake of the world.

A TESTIMONIAL DINNER TO MARK 25 YEARS OF COMMUNAL DEVOTION

In 1939 a young rabbi came from Ottawa to make his home in Toronto. In the twenty-five years that have passed, David Monson has made a contribution of unprecedented scope to his adopted city.

He is of course, the Founder-Rabbi of Beth Sholom Synagogue. It is now one of the largest in the Conservative movement with a membership of over 1,300 families. But his area of concern stretches beyond his synagogue, beyond the Jewish community and the larger body of which it is a part, and embraces a wide segment of the outside world, at the heart of which beats Israel.

Characteristically when approached, Rabbi Monson insisted that the dinner, if planned, have a broader goal than the merely laudatory. This has been done. All the proceeds realized will be devoted to the construction of a swimming pool and fully-equipped recreational playground for the youthful adherents of the Rabbi Monson Community Centre in Or Yehuda, Israel.

If you would like to be one with us in honouring Rabbi Monson, please make your reservation without delay. The hall will seat six hundred but almost half of the seats have been reserved in advance of this first public announcement.

HUMAN RELATIONS

Camera Shy

DR. ROSE N. FRANZBLAU

QUESTION: My one granddaughter, 5, is a well adjusted girl of well-adjusted and loving parents, who are darling people.

My hobby, since I was widowed, is photography. Until shortly before she turned 3, my granddaughter didn't mind being photographed. When a flash bulb was used, she just blinked and then smiled.

Then suddenly she declared that she didn't want to be photographed. When asked, she would say: "Tomorrow" — which never came. I tried taking a snapshot while she was busy playing. When she saw me doing this, she screamed. Consequently, in these last 2½ years, I was never able to get a real good photo of her.

It is such a complete complex with my otherwise smart and well-behaved granddaughter. When she is invited to a birthday party she declares, before going, "And when they take pictures, I'll run away!"

As a last resort I tried bribing. I told her I had a beautiful present which she would get if I could take just one picture of her. She said: "Only my back," and could not be convinced otherwise. She did not get her present that day.

We are still at a loss.

ANSWER: The powerful curiosity that, in later years, motivates all learning, arises in a child's early toddling years. It revolves around the question of how people and things come to be. The child particularly wants to know what is happening in her parents' private life when they shut their door.

But as much as they want to know everything that others are doing in secret, they also want their own secret wishes and ideas to remain undiscovered. They feel they would be severely punished if the thoughts and activities that bring them pleasure in their own precincts were revealed.

Having a picture taken usually means to be the center of attention, with everybody focusing on the child. However, in this era of new found curiosity about sex, having the camera and flashlight search her out means to be discovered and revealed. Guns (and flashlights, too) may represent sexual symbols on a deep unconscious level in a child's fantasy.

Whereas the picture-taking began as a game, it soon became an imposition. It was a chore for your little granddaughter to contain herself until you felt ready to take her picture. She had to sit still and control her body movements until the bulb flashed. Unconsciously, this may have meant being immobilized and deprived of the ability to ward off pain or threatening dangers. The feeling of weakness this engendered frightened her into flight.

It is good that you have found so creative a hobby that fills your life. But it should not be used to complicate your grandchild's life just because it brings you pleasure. Knowing her reaction to having her picture taken, taking them without her knowledge can only add to her fears. Also, promising and then withholding a reward, as if she had disobeyed out of meanness, makes her feel that she is a bad little girl.

You should promise that no pictures of her will be taken without her consent. When she is ready, she may tell you. Perhaps if, every time you come over instead of taking pictures, you would play with her and do the things she likes to do, she would not feel so dominated or controlled by your hobby.

Giving her a small, inexpensive camera which she can handle might be a means of bringing about rapprochement. When she shoots a picture of you and sees that she hasn't put an end to you, it might relieve some of her hostilities and fears.

NEW SHUL FOR PETERBOROUGH

Sod turning, the first step towards the construction of the Beth Israel Synagogue on Weller Street, east of the Civic Hospital nurses' residence, Peterborough, took place recently, much to the joy of that city's Jewish community.

The $135,000 synagogue, first to be built there, will be completed by August 31st.

Present at the ceremony were Mayor Clarence Boorman, Harry Silver, Rabbi A. M. Babb and Harry Schwartz, president of the congregation.

The present Beth Israel Synagogue on Reid Street was formerly a Methodist Sunday school and was purchased in 1942. The new synagogue will accommodate 290 people.

ONTARIO

Ontario is Canada's Big Vacationland

Big Ontario is your country, for one of the most exciting vacations of your life.

Ontario is 415,000 square miles of country, dotted with a quarter of a million lakes. Some are small and shallow, perfect for boating and swimming. Others are rocky and deep, bulging with fish.

Pitch a tent in one of your 86 Provincial Parks, and sleep outdoors in air that's fresh and free. Or, if you'd rather be pampered, Ontario has close to 8,000 resorts and hotels that will pamper you so you'll want to stay forever.

Ontario is green and beautiful outdoors. And Ontario is much more. Ontario is the might of Niagara Falls, art galleries and old-world castles, scarlet-coated Mounties, powerful cannons and guards in full fighting regalia.

Your Ontario is a big and stirring place. This summer, explore Ontario.

El Al Opens Largest Kosher Kitchen In World

LONDON, (CJN) — A further stage in the catering arrangements of El Al, the Israeli airline, was reached last week at London Airport when Britain's Chief Rabbi opened the company's new catering establishment and kosher kitchen which occupy a large $120,000 building.

Mr. Gustav Wangenheim, administration and finance director at El Al's London headquarters, welcomed Chief Rabbi Dr. Brodie and the other guests, who included representatives of the Ministry of Civil Aviation.

Mr. Wangenheim said that the new building had become necessary because of the increased number of passengers carried by El Al's Boeing aircraft and El Al's desire to utilise the most modern methods.

After affixing a mezuza to the main door of the building, Dr. Brodie expressed the hope that other airlines would use the facilities of the new kitchen.

Mr. H. Kweller, manager of El Al's passenger service and ground operations, who had flown specially from Tel Aviv, said that up to 1,000 meals a day could be prepared in the new establishment.

Every possible device for preparing meals of the highest quality and the greatest variety has been installed.

The manager of the kitchen is Mr. Hans Loewy.

MASSAD APPOINTS CAMP DIRECTOR

Camp Massad, Ontario, appointed Mr. David Taube as its camp director for the 1964 season. Mr. Taube, a prominent Toronto educator, known to the community as a principal of the Associated Hebrew Schools, is one of the original founders of Camp Massad which was established eleven years ago.

Camp Massad is located in one of the most picturesque areas of this province and is extremely attractive to youngsters. It is the first Hebrew speaking camp in Ontario.

A limited number of campers still can be accommodated. For information, phone Mr. David Taube: RU. 1-9141; or Mrs. Rose Hersh, ME. 3-7777.

TWO RABBIS INDUCTED IN BUDAPEST

Budapest, (JCNS) — A very large congregation attended the synagogue of the Hungarian rabbinical seminary for the induction last week of two young rabbis, Rabbi Tamas Raj, already chosen as minister of the Szeged community, and Rabbi Imre Sahn.

Rabbi Raj spoke in Hungarian, while Rabbi Sahn gave his address in Hebrew.

The induction ceremony was conducted by Professor Alexander Scheiber, director of the seminary, and the main address was given by the Chief Rabbi of Budapest, Dr. Moritz Schwartz.

BAZAAR PUBLICITY CHAIRMAN — Mr. Sydney Sugarman, an executive member of Toronto Lodge No. 836, who has been appointed publicity chairman for the 14th annual B'nai B'rith Spring Carnival and Bazaar, to be held on Wednesday, May 20th, in the Automotive Building, Exhibition Park.

b'nai b'rith in toronto

by SYDNEY SUGARMAN

B'nai B'rith, which means Sons of the Covenant, is entering now its 121st year of service. The preamble to its constitution, not generally publicized, is:

B'nai B'rith has taken upon itself the mission of uniting Israelites in the work of promoting their highest interests and those of humanity; of developing and elevating the mental and moral character of the people of our faith; of inculcating the purest principles of philanthropy, honor and patriotism; of supporting science and art; alleviating the wants of the poor and needy; visiting and attending the sick; coming to the rescue of victims of persecution; providing for, protecting and assisting the widow and orphan on the broadest principles of humanity.

In Toronto, approximately 5,000 men and women of B'nai B'rith practise what they preach. They sponsor citizenship ceremonies at City Hall; conduct visits to homes for the aged of every creed; visit Sunnybrook Hospital, The Ontario Hospital for Crippled Children, Princess Margaret Hospital and other institutions; present gifts to retarded children and muscular dystrophy patients; remember needy families at Passover and Christmas; supply canvassers for the UJA and the United Appeal; arrange theater parties for orphaned children and the blind. B'nai B'rith recognizes no racial or creedal label, only humanity.

Its annual bazaar and carnival at the Automotive Building in Exhibition Park, May 20th, deserves everyone's support.

TO SPEAK IN TORONTO: Yaacov Morris, Dublin-born Israeli, will be guest speaker at the Rabbi David Monson Testimonial Dinner at Toronto's Beth Sholom, Wednesday May 27th. The occasion will be the Rabbi's 25 years of service to the Toronto community.

A former Consul of Israel in New York, Mr. Morris has recently come to New York to assume the position of representative of the Treasurer of the Jewish Agency.

BANK OF NOVA SCOTIA

The Bank of Nova Scotia announces the opening of a new branch at Castries, St. Lucia, the first branch in the Windward Islands.

This branch is under the management of James W. Cameron, recently assistant manager of the Scotiabranch at Bridgetown, Barbados.

The major islands in the Caribbean area now have 46 Scotiabank offices.

WHAT I DON'T WANT

by Ruthie

If, for some reason, anyone forgets that this Sunday is Mothers Day, there are radio, television and newspapers to remind us. Some of these reminders are lulus, but I've just about had it.

* * *

Say it with flowers? Poor flowers! I'm one of those who wasn't born with a green thumb. Really, I try hard. But everything withers within a day or two.

* * *

Say it with candy? My children would love that, so then they could eat it while I counted calories. By now I'm on to their tricks. I've already hinted — just one tiny piece of chocolate, and into the garbage can it goes.

* * *

Say it with lingerie? That I wouldn't be against, if it were the flimsy sort. Trouble is, my kids don't see their mother as the glamorous type. Instead of unmentionables that encourage dreams, they come up with cotton underwear.

"It's practical, Ma, and will protect you from your attacks of arthritis."

So who wants that?

Say it with breakfast in bed? No, thanks! It's not worth the cleaning job afterwards. And I possibly couldn't wait serenely with, for one thing, the smell of coffee boiling over.

Say it with hosiery? I've had the experience. Just let my girls find out I've got something and they'll whine.

"Mommy, I just tore my last pair of stockings. Can you lend me a pair? It's important."

No answer.

"I'll give it back. I'll buy you another pair, honest. How can I wear a stocking with a run?"

What would you do? Right.

I relent — and that's the last of my hose.

Of course, they can do like one of my cousins. He always buys his mother stockings. But he makes sure they're either heavy cotton or everyday nylon. This way he knows his sisters won't "borrow" them. They wouldn't be caught dead with anything but the sheerest of sheers. And neither would I. So that idea is out.

Well, what do I want? Nothing special, really. If the children are well, I'm happy.

Unless, of course, Ned surprises me with that mink I've been drooling for.

Have YOU applied for your Social Insurance Number?
Your government is issuing Social Insurance Number Cards in place of the unemployment insurance numbers that most employed people have had until now. The new numbers will help government to use modern office methods for greater efficiency in handling unemployment insurance, and also other social benefits such as proposed pension plans.
For these reasons, you are invited to apply for a Social Insurance Number, even if you are not a contributor to the unemployment insurance plan.
If you haven't yet applied, here's what you do.
IF YOU ARE AN EMPLOYEE your employer will give you an application form. Fill it out and return to your employer promptly.
IF YOU ARE UNEMPLOYED and drawing benefit you will complete an application form when you report to the Unemployment Insurance Commission in person or by mail.
IF YOU ARE AN EMPLOYER registered with the Commission, you will receive application forms automatically. If NOT registered with the Commission please get in touch with your local U.I.C. office and application forms will be sent to you. Distribute application forms to your employees, have them completed and return them together, not individually, to the Commission.

TORONTO THEATRE HI-LIGHTS

Commencing Monday, May 11th, through Saturday, May 16th, Beyond The Fringe 1964, New York's and London's comedy hit, will be presented at the O'Keefe Center.

Coming directly to Toronto from New York, the company features Patrick Carter, William Christopher, Patrick Horgan and Paxton White head. The winning quartet made its first appearance at the John Golden, went on a coast-to-coast tour of the United States, then returned to Broadway shortly after the first of this year.

Beyond The Fringe 1964 consists of material inserted in the show to update its topical heresies. It is hailed by captivated reviewers as "an explosion of literate joy, proving that the troubles of the world can be devastatingly funny."

Beyond The Fringe 1964 was written by Alan Bennet. Peter Cook, Jonathan Miller and Dudley Moore. four young Britishers to whom no cows are sacred and no institution hallowed.

Evening performances start at 9:00 p.m., a policy introduced by Producer Alexander H. Cohen. Wednesday and Saturday matinees at the usual 2:00 p.m.

● Very few Canadians are aware that the owner and manager of one of Canada's swankiest hotels, the Royal Embassy of Montreal, are closely related to the world of Jewish newspapers and culture.

The president and owner is William Le Radza, a Polish Jew who lived during the war years in Israel where he was the advertising manager of a daily newspaper. He is a close friend of many Israelis prominent in the theatrical world.

Manager Lionel G. Kenneth (ne Kaplan) is the son of the martyr of the Warsaw Ghetto, Hebrew teacher Kaplan, whose diary recently has been unearthed and soon will be published by MacMillan's as one of the most sensational wartime documents.

It is remarkable that both men of culture have succeeded in giving Montreal the only hotel with an old world charm.

● Jackie Kannon says that behind every woman in a new mink coat is a husband who once swore she'd never get one.

● The Israel Philharmonic is auditioning musicians in New York for 70 year-round jobs paying an annual salary.

● Peter Ustinov prepares his material (from full playscripts to tiny practical jokes) most thoroughly. Recently he worked on a Hollywood movie directed by a Hungarian. When the project was over, the director asked Ustinov's opinion of it. "It will go well in the big cities," he said, "but not in the small ones."

The director asked: "What do you consider a big city?" Budapest, said Ustinov. The director asked: "And what do you consider a small city?" Ustinov carefully answered: "Oh, a small city is Nyireg - Haza, Kecskemet, Szekes-Fehervar...."

● At Israel's Independence Day Festival, neither the melodies nor the words proved especially interesting. The hit of the evening was scored by Mrs. Miriam Eshkol, wife of the Prime Minister, in performing her first public act. Following thunderous applause, Mrs. Eshkol, wearing a black and fashionable hairdo, was straight-forward and brief, even if understandably nervous, when she said, and brought the house down with, "Lets get down to it," in good sabra idiom.

● Last week many were present at the laying of the cornerstone for Beit Sholom Aleichem, near the Ichilov Hospital, in Israel. Among those there were: President Shazar; The USSR Ambassador, Mr. M. Bodrov; Mayor Namir; Mr. Eliahu Elath, president of the Hebrew University; Y. D. Berkowitz, the writer, who also is the son-in-law and translator of Sholom Aleichem.

Beth Sholom Aleichem will become a center for collecting works by and about Jewish humorists.

Speeches lasted two solid hours. Speakers included Mr. Y. Michall, on behalf of the Hebrew Writers' Union, and Mrs. M. Gross-Zimmerman, on behalf of the Yiddish writers in Israel. Also speaking was Haim Grade, Yiddish poet, who is visiting Israel as a guest of the President. Mr. Uri Zvi Greenberg, Israel's most renowned poet, walked out during Mr. Grade's speech.

● "I'm old; I feel real old," said Barbra Streisand. "I'm not 21. I'm 22. Twenty-one's the measure. Once you're old enough to vote."

● A new library at Brandeis University will be named for sculptor Jacques Lipchitz.

● A controversy in which the Israeli theater is involved concerns Habimah's ruffling some feathers in an unexpected quarter, the Yiddish press of New York. It seems that members of the company did not do what was expected of them: visit the offices of the Yiddish newspapers upon arrival, as was the custom in the beginning of the century when a theater would come to town. Moreover, in a conversation with some of the Yiddish journalists, the latter demanded that in addition to shows where an English translation was heard over earphones, Habimah present performances with Yiddish translation. The Habimah people explained that synchronization was expensive and could be done only if Yiddish-speaking organizations would buy out a number of shows, but the journalists were unimpressed, and the reaction in print was expectedly hostile.

Echoes of the controversy were heard when Habimah arrived in Tel Aviv and met with the press. An editor of a Yiddish weekly stood up and asked why the Habimah posters in New York were written in English with no Hebrew or Yiddish text, as his friends in America had informed him. The Habimaites tried to explain that the posters were printed by the management of the theater which organized their tour, not by them, but the man persisted that Hebrew and Yiddish were put to shame in the New York subways.

Further echoes of the controversy are still being heard in the daily Yiddish papers in Tel Aviv, and some neutral persons are trying to organize a mediation meeting so that the matter be forgotten.

● Igor Stravinsky, now 82, is planning a trip to Israel where he will conduct his new 'Abraham and Isaac' symphony.

● Lou Jacobi will play the violin in his next musical.

● Concerning the film, The Bible, film producer Dino de Laurentiis has announced in Italy that he has settled a controversy involving newspapers, clergy and the public in several countries about whether Eve should by blonde or brunet. She will be a blonde. Chosen for the part from among 1,000 or more girls interviewed by talent scouts all over the world is blonde, 19-year-old Swedish anthropology student, Ulla Bergryd.

The Bible, covering Genesis to Abraham, from a script by British playwright Christopher Fry, is due to begin production early next month.

● Ex-Torontonian Lorne Greene, who made his big mark in Bonanza, says he is often approached in restaurants by men wanting his autograph "for my mother-in-law, who thinks you're great" or "for my wife, who makes it damned difficult for me while you're on." The only mail that bothers him is that from teenage girls who say they love him and "have always been attracted to older men." He doesn't mind the "older man" bit, he's 48. What bothers him is that "their fathers are obviously not around or are being neglectful."

Lorne is the parent of bright 19-year-old twins who graduated last year from Toronto's Forest Hill Collegiate with honors.

Greene does not believe in corporal punishment; a look should be sufficient. That's what his father always gave him, and he'll always remember it.

● Shelley Winters was seen in a booth eating a pickle and sipping a Coke. "Ugh. That's my diet, pickles and a Coke," she frowned. "Sure it makes me sick. That keeps me from eating."

● A Polish Jew who went to London shortly after the start of World War II and served in a Free Polish commando unit and in intelligence is buying El Morocco, New York's favorite dining-and-dancing place of society for more than thirty years. He is John Mills, 6'4", 250-pound London nightclub and gambling casino operator. His son, Robert, 25 and 6'8", graduate of the University of California, will manage the plush club on a $100-dollar-a-year membership basis. Comedian Bob Hope is head of the Board of Directors.

● Debbie Reynolds, married to shoe tycoon Harry Karl, finds it difficult to obtain footwear for her role in The Unsikable Molly Brown. Karl could not come up with the type of footwear required for the elaborate musical, based on the Broadway stage success. Debby got her shoes handmade in Italy to the tune of approximately $20,000. Her shoe wardrobe ranges from fur boots to diamond-heeled bedroom slippers, with dozens of other footwear trimmed with everything from lace to gold leaf.

LUBAVITCH TO PRESS CHARGES

New York, (JCNS) — Rabbi Shmuel Shrage, head of administration at the Lubavitcher Yeshiva in Brooklyn, will press charges against the Negro boys and girls who last Tuesday afternoon attacked yeshiva students with sticks and tire chains.

He told the JCNS correspondent here that there was only one white school in the area. "We have had some small incidents before involving a few individuals, but nothing like this."

He added that the pupils were commuters, and the yeshiva no longer served their community, as the neighborhoods had changed. Land had been bought Flatbush, but no funds were available for building a new school there. "Our boys did not stand a chance", he said. "But there were no serious injuries."

HAMILTON, ONT (CJN) — More than 500 guests attended Hamilton's 1964 J. N. F. Negev dinner, honoring Harold A. Minden Q.C., Chairman of the dinner was Irwin Lyons. The invocation was by Rabbi Morton Green. Greetings were delivered by Mayor Victor Copps; Sam Lax, J.N.F. Council president; Manny Rotman; Mrs. David Polan; William Stern. Rabbi Bernard Baskin presented Mr. Minden with the Nachla Citation.
Guest speaker was Gershon Avner, Ambassador of Israel, who was introduced by Norman Levitt and thanked by Harry Beube. The dinner took place at the Adas Israel Auditorium. Pictured above are (left to right): Rabbi Bernard Baskin presenting Nachla Citation to Harold A. Minden, Q.C. (Centre). On the right is H. E. Ambassador Gershon Avner.

WINS LIBEL SUIT

Tel Aviv, (JCNS) — Rabbi Shlomo Lorincz, an Agudat Israel member of the Knesset, was awarded £15,000 damages for libel by the Tel Aviv district court against the Yiddish daily, "Letzte Naies".

The newspaper had stated that he had taken part in the hiding of Yossele Schumacher, the young boy kidnapped from his parents in 1959 because of objections by his grandfather to their alleged intention to emigrate to Russia.

AARON NISSENSON

NEW YORK, (CJN) — Aaron Nissenson, Yiddish poet and publicity director for the Joint Distribution Committee, died last Friday at Lenox Hill Hospital in New York after a brief illness at the age of 67. His poems, articles and news stories have appeared in Yiddish newspapers and Anglo-Jewish publications throughout the world.

Nissenson is survived by his wife Kate; son Herschel, a staff reporter for Associated Press; and a granddaughter. A sister and brother-in-law, poet and Mrs. Ephraim Auerbach, live in Israel.

ODON BEKE

BUDAPEST, Hungary — Professor Odon Beke, one of the most respected veterans of Jewish education in Hungary, died here at the age of 81. For 25 years he was a staff member of the Pest Jewish High School. Recently he was Professor of Languages at the Budapest University.

ODESSA: WILL CLOSE SYNAGOGUE

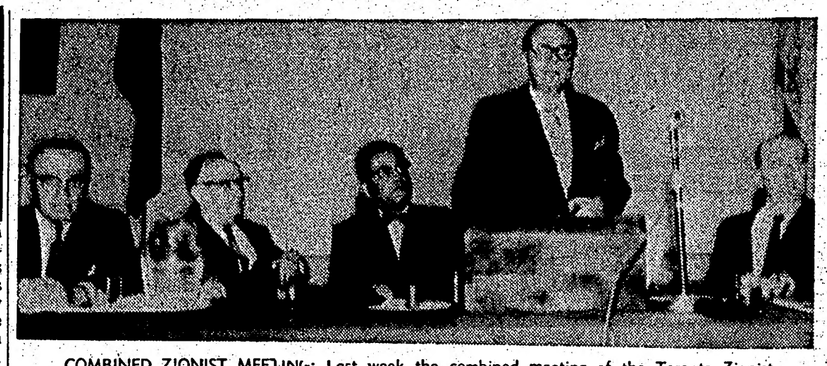
London, (JCNS) — It has been reported, but not so far confirmed, that the Odessa authorities have informed Jewish leaders that the Black Sea port's only synagogue will soon have to be demolished, as the area in which it stands is to be rebuilt.

This information comes after a request to the authorities a short time ago for permission to renovate the dilapidated building. Money had been donated voluntarily for the purpose, the application said.

Last month, the Odessa newspaper, "Znamya Kommunizma", published a series of articles attacking the synagogue, its rabbi, the Chevra Kadisha, and regular worshippers by name. A letter from a man called Mirski, accused the Chevra Kadisha of "extorting money from the dead and the living".

Its members thought only of money and had turned the Chevra Kadisha into a "gold mine". The letter ended by demanding action against the synagogue and "the liquidation of this nest of black marketeers".

There is no official figure for the Jewish population of Odessa, but the city's mayor, Mr. Gregori Blagvichenko, said that the population census in 1959, gave a total of 200,000.



COMBINED ZIONIST MEETING: Last week the combined meeting of the Toronto Zionist Council and B'nai Zion Association heard a report on the Actions Committee session in Jerusalem, by Sol D. Granek, ZOC National Executive Vice President.

ISRAEL PIPELINE ALMOST READY

TEL AVIV, (CJN). — A pipeline to carry Jordan River waters to Israel's Negev is almost complete.

However, secrecy is being maintained about the scheduled date of the diversion of the waters because of threats by neighboring Arab countries. Actually there has been no evidence here of any concrete preparations in Arab countries to implement an Arab conference's decision in January to cut off the Jordan's tributaries rising in Arab countries to prevent the waters from reaching Israel.

Experts here believe effective diversion of the Hasbani, rising in Lebanon, and the Banias, rising in Syria, would take several years. However, the possibility of a token diversion or some other form of interference has not been ruled out by Israelis.

Catholic Hospital Kosher

LONDON, England (JCNFS) — St. Andrew's Catholic Hospital of Dollis Hill will have the first kosher kitchen in a Catholic hospital to accomodate Jewish patients according to a source close to Archbishop of Westminster, Dr. John Heenan, its president.

MONTREAL CULTURAL FORUM

Itzchok Yonasovitch of Buenos Aires, renowned Yiddish poet, essayist, journalist and cultural leader, will be guest lecturer at a Cultural Forum on Sunday evening, May 10th, 8:30 p.m., in the auditorium of the Jewish People's Schools, 5170 Van Horne Avenue, Montreal.

Theme of the lecture will be: Introduction to a Study of One Hundred Years of Yiddish Literature.

Sponsors of the event are the Adult Education Committee of Canadian Jewish Congress and Cultural Committees of the Labor Zionist Movement, Jewish Public Library and Workmen's Circle.

MONTREAL ADVERTISING MANAGER

Mrs. Millicent C. Halperin, well known in advertising circles in Montreal, has been appointed advertising manager of The Canadian Jewish News for Montreal and the Province of Quebec, according to an announcement by Sid Back, general advertising manager of this newspaper.

Mr. Back declared that the recent growth of The Canadian Jewish News demands a separate office to handle the business in La Belle Province.

Upon the demand of leading Jewish citizens of Montreal, The Canadian Jewish News also opened new offices at 1117 St. Catherine Street, West, Montreal. Telephone: 845-9103.

We hope that this new location will provide better and more personal service to our Montreal patrons and clients, Mr. Back concluded.

DATELINE NEW YORK

they are victims of anti-semitism. In point of fact, the number of Jews admitted to the Ivy League colleges add up to very much more than their 3.2 per cent of the population.

These days, graduation from a "good college" is no longer merely a status symbol. It is an economic necessity. As a result, parents start worrying about their children's college admission when they are still in elementary school.

So much pressure is being exerted that many youngsters require psychiatric counselling and therapy before they are ready for high school. Jewish parents in particular tend to be over-anxious and over-ambitious for their young to whom the prospect of making only a non-name college spells failure and shame.

Numerous psychologists have advanced the theory that juvenile delinquency among privileged youths is an attempt to shake off the yoke of parental pressure. In recent months New York Jews were shocked to learn that some boys and girls of good Jewish suburban families were involved in delinquency and, even, crime.

While the neighbours of some of these youngsters expressed "unbelief" in the guilt of these "models of good behaviour," the court psychologists say that the strain of parental ambition — and the child's identification with it — built up such a pressure that somothing had to give.
